

ANOTHER VETO.

President Cleveland Vetoes the French Claims Bill.

THIS TIME HE IS SUSTAINED

By the House, which was Not a Condemnation of Its Own Action, but a Fling at the Senate—A Scrupulous Debate which Had No Political Coloring—Several Members Get in Some Rib-Rosers on the President.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 7.—The curious spectacle was witnessed in the house yesterday afternoon of members on both sides applauding vigorously a message in which the President vetoed a bill which the house passed a few days ago. Shortly afterward the house voted as it had applauded, sustaining the veto by the decisive vote of 149 to 40. The bill was the general deficiency measure, the veto of which was predicted in these dispatches several days ago.

This, with the other action taken today, clears the decks of the house for adjournment. Immediately after the veto message was read and approved a substitute bill was sent to the senate omitting the French spoliation and other claims which had incurred the presidential opposition.

Although there was little debate on the Indian bill conference report, which involved a compromise extending government aid to church schools for another year, when it came to a vote the compromise was rejected by the narrow vote of fifty-eight to sixty-five. An amendment authorizing the states to make liens on arid lands to cover expenses of reclamation was adopted and a bill passed limiting mail which can be franked to printed and written matter.

After the message had been read Mr. Adams, (Rep., Pa.), shouted: "Suppose we refuse to pass the bill over the veto and then refuse a two-thirds vote to suspend the rules."

To this Mr. Cannon, chairman of the appropriation committee, replied: "If Congress refused to pass a bill appropriating for the ordinary expenses of the government without 200 claims fastened on by the senate, there is nothing but a head-on collision with the senate to fail back on." (Applause.) Mr. Richardson, (Dem., Tex.), suggested that as the President had not objected to the southern war claims, they should remain in the new bill, but Mr. Cannon declared they would be subject to a point of order.

Thereupon Mr. Mahon, (Rep., Pa.), spoke with great warmth. "I want to put against the gentleman at the other end of the avenue men like Calhoun, Clay and Webster," he said, "and I prefer to take their judgment on legal questions rather than that of the man who now occupies the presidential chair. He has repudiated the courts of the United States, and now he proposes to repudiate Congress. This is not a matter for the President to settle. If we propose to let him dictate what bills are to be passed we might as well go home."

Mr. Brumm, (Rep., Pa.), as chairman of the committee on claims, believed the policy of adding claims to appropriation bills to be a bad one, and then provoked a tempest when he continued, speaking of the veto, "Setting aside the billingsgate."

"I call the gentleman to order," shouted Mr. Sayers. "He has no right to indulge in such talk regarding the President."

Mr. Brumm shouted back, excitedly: "I am responsible for all I say, and am ready to answer for it at the proper time."

"Your responsibility," yelled Mr. Sayers, in a sarcastic tone, "does not amount to anything."

"Yours does not amount to any more," retorted Mr. Brumm.

Speaking of the arguments of the veto, Mr. Brumm declared that they were "intended as a cheat, a fraud and a falsehood."

When he had finished Mr. Sayers asserted that "the language of the gentleman from Pennsylvania is not only unparliamentary, but absolutely indecent."

Mr. Willis, (Rep., Del.): "Why do you not protest against the moral lectures that the President sees fit to inflict upon this Congress and the insinuations he indulges in?"

Mr. Sayers: "The President is fulfilling his constitutional duty."

Mr. Grosvenor, (Rep., Ohio), said the President had "furnished a rebash of all the stale Democratic arguments for repudiating these claims," and had deliberately misstated the facts, as there was no insurance claims in the amendment. He continued: "The occupant of the presidential chair has done more to bring into discredit the veto power than all his predecessors, because he has defied public opinion, is defying Congress and has trampled on the rights of Congress to appropriate money for the expenses of the government."

"The President in a recent message," Mr. Grosvenor concluded, "said that participation in the country was at a low ebb, but it would be news to the people of this country, who were counting the few remaining days that the President had in office, to know that they must look to him for patriotism."

Mr. Cannon declared that there were too insurance claims in the bill, notwithstanding Mr. Grosvenor's denials. He had differed from the President radically, yet always respectfully, but he agreed with the President in his veto. "This amendment never should have gone on the bill. It is a whitened sepulchre filled with dead men's bones," (Applause.)

The question of passing the bill over the veto was then put to the house, and the vote on the roll call was: Yeas 40, nays 149.

Mr. Cannon then sent to the clerk's desk the substitute bill.

Mr. Richardson protested against the bill, because in it Mr. Cannon had "vetoed" not only the French spoliation claims and the Chateau claim disapproved by the President, but also the southern war claims, which the President had not mentioned, and had given the committee no opportunity to pass upon the bill. Mr. Evans, (Ky.), and Mr. Wellington, (Md.), also pleaded for the southern war claims.

In reply Mr. Cannon said: "The deficiency bill is as dead as Julius Caesar. We are all anxious to get away—but he was interrupted with 'Not now!' and he remarked: 'Well, then, stay if you want to.' He explained that he had prepared the new bill because there was not time for the committee to frame a new one, and had omitted the Bowman act claims because they could not be put on a bill originating in the house under the rules, and should not so long as he had the power to make a point of order."

This provoked a tumult, in which Mr. Cannon yelled "I do not believe the house cares to follow the lead of the House of Representatives," and Mr. Wellington retorted: "The house will not go wrong if it does in this matter," and was called to order by the speaker.

The vote on the passage of the bill was yeas 127, nays 42, a wide margin over the necessary two-thirds to pass a bill under suspension of the rules.

The action of the house today can hardly be called a condemnation of its own action in passing the bill which the President rejected, because the features of the measure to which the President objected—the French spoliation claims items and the Chateau claim items—were inserted in the bill by the senate and rejected after much wrangling by the house conference.

This was one instance in which a big majority of the house members seemed to think it was a good thing to have the veto power in the hands of a courageous President. How the senate will take the veto is another matter. The house did not adjourn to-night, but simply took a recess to 10 o'clock Monday morning.

BERKELEY REPUBLICANS

Instruct for Atkinson for Governor and for Dayton for Congress—Not Frightened Over the Silver Craze. Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., June 7.—At the Republican convention held yesterday all parts of the county of Berkeley were fully represented. Our people were never so confident in all our past history as they are this year, nor were they ever so anxious to vote as they are at this time. You can depend upon it that Berkeley Republicans are not going to be inveigled into the Democratic free silver trap. They understand the scheme as an unadulterated fraud to catch enough Republicans, who might be misled by the silver craze, to save their sinking ship. A solid Republican front by the Republicans this year means a Democratic defeat in West Virginia by 20,000 or more majority. Our people know that the Wilson-Gorman tariff law is what is the matter with the country, and not a want of silver legislation; and they also understand that the Democratic managers have learned that on the issues involved in the tariff the Republicans will defeat them in almost every state in the union, hence they have gone to work to trump up an issue with which to fool the people, just as they fooled them in 1892 with their free trade fallacy. It is strange but true that the Democratic party will do anything to keep themselves in power, even to the wrecking of the nation. Any sane man must know that the free and unlimited coinage of silver will, shortly after it is instituted, reduce the United States to a silver basis, or a single silver standard, which will bring in its train wreck and ruin to the business of the country. And yet they seem as willing to take it up in order to retain power, as they did secession in 1861, and the "rag-baby" in 1874-5. They will be defeated by the sober minded people this year just as they were defeated in 1861 and 1874.

The convention to-day unanimously instructed its delegates to vote for the nomination of Hon. Geo. W. Atkinson for governor and Hon. A. G. Dayton for a second term in Congress.

Bottled Up!

Whether in the form of pill powder or liquid, the doctor's prescription for blood diseases is always the same—mercury or potash. These drugs bottle up the poison and dry it up in the system, but they also dry up the marrow in the bones at the same time.

The suppleness and elasticity of the joints give way to a stiffness, the racking pains of rheumatism. The form gradually bends, the bones ache, while decrepitude and helplessness prematurely take possession of the body, and it is but a short step to a pair of crutches. Then comes falling of the hair and decay of the bones, a condition truly horrible.

Contagious Blood Poison—the curse of mankind—is the most horrible of all diseases, and has always baffled the doctors. Their potash and mercury bottle up the poison, but it always breaks forth again attacking some delicate organ, frequently the mouth and throat, filling them with eating sores. S.S.S. is the only known cure for this disease. It is guaranteed purely vegetable, and one thousand dollars reward is offered for proof to the contrary. It never fails to cure Contagious Blood Poison, Scrofula, Eczema, Rheumatism, Cancer, or any other disease of the blood. If you have a blood disease, take a remedy which will not injure you. Beware of mercury; don't do violence to your system. Don't get bottled up!

PITTSBURGH JOINS

In Paying Tribute to the Little Conqueror.

From Pittsburgh Leader: A young man went to a very wealthy and successful manufacturer a short time ago and applied for employment. "What can you do?" the manufacturer said, and the young man proceeded to tell in glowing terms of his wonderful ability. "But I don't want to know what you say you can do," the gentleman replied; "let me know what others say you have done. Bring me recommendations from people I know and can trust."

Let the same way with medicines. People don't want to know what the manufacturers say then CAN do, but what those who have used them say they HAVE done. In presenting Doan's Kidney Pills we do not simply tell you that they are a sovereign remedy for all diseases of the kidneys, we tell you what they have done, people whose statements you can verify any day, and about whose testimony there cannot be the slightest shadow of a doubt. One case of particular interest in this connection is that of Mrs. Jas. Ferris, who lives at 491 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., and who is well known in that community. "About eleven months ago," Mrs. Ferris said, in telling her story, "I had a severe attack of lumbago, which settled in my back and kidneys. I spent a good deal of money consulting physicians and using various remedies, but all to no purpose. I was completely discouraged. The pain in my back was so bad, and there was such a dragging feeling, that I could scarcely get around at all. I could not do any work, and was scarcely ever free from these terrible pains in my back. A couple of months ago my husband saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, and we decided to try them, although I am free to confess that we did not have much faith that they would help me. The result was a delightful surprise, however. They gave me almost immediate relief, and since taking them I have not been troubled at all. They did me more good than all the other remedies I had taken put together. I am glad to testify to the virtues of Doan's Pills."

You'll find Doan's Kidney Pills just as effective in your case if you are troubled with lame back, backache, a dull business feeling that you want to get rid of, or any of the other forms of kidney disorder.

You can get Doan's Kidney Pills at your druggist's, at 50 cents a box, or they will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, by Foster-Milburn Co., sole agents, Buffalo, N. Y.
